DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-4, 6, 10, 13-15 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DiOrio (US 6,357,703 B1).

DiOrio teaches an apparatus for securing a mouse support pad (24, fig. 4) to a predetermined member (18, fig. 3), comprising:

- A vertical member (42, fig. 3) having a predetermined size and shaped (shown in fig. 3), and a first end (lower end of 42, fig. 3, not numbered) and a second end (upper end of 42, fig. 3, not numbered) (claims 1 and 10)
- A slot (between members 44 and 46, fig. 4, not labeled) disposed within said vertical member intermediate said first end and said second end of said vertical member being closely adjacent said first end of said vertical member so that said vertical member extends upwardly from an upper surface (upper surface of 18, fig. 3) of such predetermined member, and having a predetermined width (shown in fig. 4) being sufficient to slide onto a desktop (18, fig. 3) (claims 1, 6, 10 and 17)

- A securement device (52, fig. 3) disposed on said first end of said vertical member for securing said vertical member to a predetermined member (18, fig. 3) (claims 1 and 10)
- A means (50, fig. 4; see col. 6, lines 11-13) for securing the mouse support pad (24, fig. 4) to said second end of said vertical member (claims 1 and 10)
- Wherein said securement device includes a bolt (52, fig. 10) being threadably attached to said first end of said vertical member and entering said slot of said vertical member (shown in fig. 3) (claims 2-4 and 13-15)
- Wherein said mouse support pad is a solid platform made of plastic (see col. 5, lines 53-55) (claim 11)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 7 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DiOrio.

DiOrio discloses the claimed invention except specifying the means for securing the mouse support pad to the second end of the vertical member are capscrews.

However, DiOrio teaches a set of fasteners (58, fig. 5) being capscrews. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to specify the fastening means (50, fig. 4) being also capscrews for clearly indicating the fasteners used.

5. Claims 9 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DiOrio.

DiOrio discloses the claimed invention except specifying the slot being disclosed between 0.25 inches and 0.5 inches from the first end of the vertical member.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to specify the slot being disposed between 0.25 and 0.5 inches from the end of the vertical member and to indicate in fig. 3, since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the size of a component. A change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. See MPEP §2144.04, VI, A.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 5, 8, 12 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The best prior art of record, DiOrio (US 6,357,703 B1), fails to teach or reasonably suggest an apparatus for securing a mouse support pad to a predetermined member, comprising: a three star knob provided on a second end of a bolt of a securement device disposed on a first end of a vertical member for turning said bolt as set forth in claims 5 and 16; a slot disposed within said vertical member, having a ledge disposed in said slot as set forth in claim 8; and wherein said mouse support pad is a solid platform made of a phenolic resin as set forth in claim 12.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments filed Feb. 17, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues, "There is no teaching or even a suggestion in Diorio of having a vertical member that extends upwardly from the predetermined member or shelf." Diorio names the element 42 "a clamp" which is apparently a vertical member having all limitations claimed in the claims as indicated in paragraph 2, hereinabove.

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
